Inspire. Motivate. Encourage.

My Story: Nanette Kirk

As President and CEO of NetKi Enterprises, Nanette Kirk's vision was to create a vehicle to share her love of writing, storytelling and encouraging others. Faced with the uncertainty of being downsized, Nanette embraced concepts learned from a career transition company to write her own resume. Fascinated with receiving multiple offers, she settled in a management career while still helping friends and families with their resumes. Soon, she uncovered a gap between qualified candidates and hiring companies. Leveraging her management skills and her resume writing experience, she formed NetKi Enterprises in 2003 as a sole proprietorship and side-hustle. Her goal was to help highly qualified people shape their career story into a compelling resume. She hoped at the same time, she could also help companies find their future employees. It worked. In 2013, NetKi Enterprises transitioned into a LLC and has helped hundreds share their career story and find their next position.

As satisfying as it was to help clients, she wanted to do more to positively impact lives. Nanette also facilitates career workshops, motivational speeches and authored her first fictional novel in 2010 titled, Familiar Strangers, Changing Faces available on lulu.com and Amazon. Her second novel, When Do I Get to the Good Part is due for release in 2018. It explores the impact of abuse across family generations and from diverse viewpoints. A sample chapter can be found on our website. Today, NetKi Enterprises offers over 20 different career and motivational products and services designed to be a one-stop-shop to inspire, motivate and encourage others to realize their career goals and live their fullest life.

Nanette has twenty years of management experience at various levels. She also holds a BS in Business Administration and MBA from Indiana Wesleyan University. A native of Indianapolis, IN, Nanette's career has made her somewhat of a nomad. She has lived in several different states. Currently based in Maryland, Nanette now splits her time between Indiana and Maryland to care for her spectacular senior mother.
